At the raffle for the benefit of the Bum Author's League at Ash Fork New Year's Eve, the following what-you-call-it was won by us at an expenditure of four-bits—the price of a can. We reserve the right to believe that we paid four-bits too much, even though we got this whack at said can:

LINES.
I look out upon the great world,
With its little fat people,
Stagnant with sun-burn and morn and other things of that sort,
Running over the hills,
Heaving with heartburn,
The frogs gulp and gurgle!
A maiden talks to the little froth people
And the windmen,
And murmurs: "Oh my soul!
Where did I get it? I wonder,
And is it mine to keep?"
And the willows moan,
And the universe is begging to show its ribs,
And my head aches,
And one-eyed star blinks and goes out—
Perhaps—who knows?—to rush the case?
Oh, my soul!
Won't somebody please put salt on its tail?

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish, and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at D. J. Brannen's drug store.
